About Kabissa

Kabissa (Kiswahili for “complete”) was founded on the belief that information and communication technologies (ICTs) can be a revolutionary force in African civil society. Kabissa’s three main programs support the use of ICTs for positive social change.

- Enabling organizations to access the power of the Internet
Kabissa provides accessible, affordable, and secure Internet services, including Web site hosting, e-mail accounts, and mailing lists, all specifically designed to address the needs of African organizations. Today, more than 550 organizations take advantage of our services.
- Empowering organizations to integrate ICTs into their advocacy work
Kabissa develops learning materials, provides access to learning opportunities, and conducts workshops to build the capacity of organizations to use ICTs.
- Fostering interaction within the African non profit sector
Kabissa’s discussion groups, contact directory, and mailing lists all support the strengthening of ties between organizations. Our popular weekly social justice newsletter, Pambazuka News, currently has more than 10,000 subscribers.
